Assembly Sends Garey Bill To Governor By Vote Of 46 To 29

BILL ADVOCATED BY BLAINE

Measure Completes Safe Passage In Both Houses
At Madison

By Associated Press
Madison—The death knell for the state board of education was sounded in the assembly Wednesday when it concurred in the Garey senate bill, abolishing the board. Having completed a safe passage through both houses,
the measure now goes to Governor Blaine, whose approval is considered assured, as he urged its passage in a recent message to the legislature.

The vote on concurrence was 46 to 29, the roll call showing about the same lineup as when the bill was passed to a third reading last week.
Assemblyman Perry made a last minute attempt to defer final action on the bill by moving that it be tabled,
but his motion lost 31 to 45.

The assembly finally passed an-tent to the senate the Oliver bill, providing that the salary of no state employee or official shall be increased to a figure beyond $5,000 annually except by act of the legislature.

The Ankersen bill, making the maintenance of vocational educational schools optional with the cities of fourth class which was the subject of several lengthy committee hearings, was killed by the assembly.

EUGENICS LAW GETS BLOW
Madison—A change in the Wisconsin eugenics law to remove the compulsory physical examination feature was quoted by the senate Wednesday with adoption of the Schumann amendment to the Spoor bill calling for complete repeal of the statute.

The senate again laid over for one week consideration of the Sachjen bill, restricting the search and seizure clause of the Sverson prohibition enforcement act.

More than $700,000 is being annually in Wisconsin in teaching foreign languages in the schools, assembly
Math Koenigs, Fond du Lac, declared in urging the education committee to report favorably his bill which would prohibit such teachings in all state supported institutions except the university. The committee did not act on the bill.

nounced this afternoon that the gov-

dealing in sugar futures had been denied.

PIGGY WIGGLY CHIEF
BOWS TO WALL STREET

Memphis, Tenn. — Leading stockholders of Piggy Wiggle Stores Inc.
were in conference Wednesday over action taken on the proposal of Clarence Saunders, president of the corporation, that he relinquish control of the company and turn it over to a "special committee."

Mr. Saunders' proposal was made,
he said, because "certain powerful interests in this city" were opposing him.

This announcement came at a meeting of 200 investors men who were conducting as volunteer salesmen a city wide campaign for the disposal of 50,000 shares of the Piggy Wiggle stock to the public. It was the more surprising in view of the report published a short time earlier that 2,600 shares had been sold in the first two days of the drive.

The local volunteer organization was organized upon Mr. Saunders' announcement through advertisements
a week ago that "Wall Street is broke"
when it said he "go broke" or
"unless he disposed of the class 'A' Piggy Wiggle stock."

New York — Charles M. Schwab
Wednesday appeared before the grand jury to testify against Mrs. Myrtle R.
Foyce, a Boston business woman alleged to have forged the iron masters
name last January to a note for $25, 000.

George Gordon Battle, attorney for Mrs. Foyce, told reports that there was no possibility of his client having made a cent out of the alleged forgery.
"It was in connection with financing the Hotel Chatham in Boston," he said.

KILL RESOLUTION
ASKING FOR BEER

Dry Forces Display Unexpected
Strength In State
Assembly

By Associated Press
Madison—The dry forces displayed unexpected strength in the assembly
Wednesday and defeated an amended joint resolution by Assemblyman Prescott of Milwaukee petitioning the Wisconsin delegation in congress to intiate legislation permitting the manufacture and sale of beer. The roll call showed a tie vote, 41-41. Failing of a majority the resolution lost.

As originally drawn the Prescott resolution would have directed the petition only to Senator LaFollette, declaring that "thousands of people in Wisconsin had been led to believe that his attitude toward the Eighteenth amendment is liberal and because of that belief voted for him at the last election."

A substitute amendment offered by Assemblyman Peterson of Milwaukee and adopted 54 to 28, over the opposition of Mr. Prescott. The substitute amendment provided that the petition for beer legislation be made to all Wisconsin members in congress and eliminated reference to the vote for Mr.
LaFollette at the last election.

Mr. Prescott raised the point that the amendment was not germane.
Speaker Dahl overruled the contention,
and was sustained by the assembly.
Mr. Prescott then moved the amendment be rejected, the motion losing, 27
to 52.

After adoption of the amendment,
Assemblyman Hanson of Dane moved that the resolution as amended be indefinitely postponed. The vote was 40-40 and the motion lost. The vote on adoption was then taken which resulted in a 41-41 tie and defeat of the resolution.

Measure To Go Before Senate
Thursday—Fail To Act
At Caucus

By Associated Press
Madison—A caucus of Progressive Republican senators held Tuesday night to consider Governor Blaine's general income tax bill, ended without agreement, those who attended said Wednesday. At least four of the senators present were outspoken in their opposition, according to members.

Almost all of the Progressive senators are said by the members of the caucus to have demanded amendments before assuring their support.
The four senators who are reported to be ready to join with the opposition to kill the bill unless its features are drastically changed are Senators
H. J. Severson, Eldo T. Ridgway, W.
A. Titus and Howard Teasdale. These men are said to have expressed opposition in the meeting. Senator Slaundenmeyer is reported by these in attendance to have said that he would oppose the bill if any Socialist amendments were added.

When the Blaine tax bill is reached on the calendar of the senate Thursday amendments will be received and then the bill laid over, probably for another week, according to agreement between the upper house factions.

Senator Anton Kuuck, who will
lead the opposition, announced that he would not attempt to force a vote
but would give members plenty of time to study the changes to be proposed. A large number of amendments are looked for by the senators.

Sensor Henry Huber, administration floor leader, sought delay in consideration of the bill he said to assure careful study of all of its provisions, and of the amendments.

murdered John Schilke, night watch-on the head with a heavy club and took his watch, which was pawned here.

Merrill, came after the prisoner and took him back to Merrill Wednesday.

Seger told officials all the details of the murder but denies placing the body of Schilke on a Dutch oven, where it was found burned partly to a crisp.

FIRE EATS UP $1,000

of $1,000 a minute, according to the statistics of the National Fire Protection association in session here Wednesday. The fire prevention experts analyzed loss which the nation pays as a tax and discussed methods of reducing the burden.

The annual loss is placed at 15,000 lives and more than $500,000,000 in property by the experts, who declare 80 per cent of the fires are prevent-

SHIP BOARD IS WINNER IN WAR
WITH POLITICS

Harding Refuses To Bend To
New Jersey Senator "Just To Accommodate"

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1923, by the Post Pub. Co.
Washington—Politics and efficiency have had their first clash with respect to government operation of merchant ships, and efficiency has won.

Efforts of New Jersey Republicans, led by Senator Walter Edge, who is a candidate for reelection next time, to persuade President Harding to reverse
the decision of the United States Shipping board and permit the giant liner Leviathan to dock at a Hoboken pier
instead of New York, have failed completely and the word has been passed out that this incident may be taken as an example of the methods that will be pursued in matters of this kind in the future.

REFUSE OFFER
It was insisted that Hoboken, N.
J., was entitled to consideration because of its traditional position as well as because of a willingness to furnish dock space free. The New York municipal pier will cost the government a rental of about $10,000 a year. The shipping board experts who took the matter under advisement originally came to the conclusion that even with the free rental it would cost the government
more in the end because the transshipment of mails across the Hudson river
by ferry and the other inconveniences to passengers who would wish to drive to the pier either in their own automobiles or in taxicabs would tend to drive business to the foreign vessels which have piers in New York city.

As an evidence of the wisdom of their contention, the experts pointed out to Mr. Harding that the foreign companies were very anxious to prevent if possible the docking of the Leviathan on the New York side of the river. It was represented that they believed they would be in a better competitive position if the Levi-than were kept on the Hoboken side.
The postoffice department, estimated a cost of $3,500 in carrying the mails
across for each trip but the controlling consideration was convenience to prospective passengers.

BUSINESS JUDGEMENT WINS
It rarely happens that the government turns down something that is offered free when it has to pay $100, 000 a year for virtually the same thing and this was emphasized by the New Jersey contingent. Business judgment alone could decide whether in the long run it would be more profitable to operate from a New York city pier and the president and Chairman Lasker, who were in Florida when the shipping experts made their decision to Hoboken. He has been a have stood squarely behind them ever since.

While Hoboken is a Democratic community and so is New York city,
it would have probably benefited
Senator Walter Edge, Republican, politically if he could have swung the decision to Hoboken. He has been a staunch administration Republican and will have a close fight for reelection in a state which has just elected a Democratic United States senator.
Naturally he is disappointed at the lack of political support given him
by the administration but expediency will have little effect on the government's shipping policy and Mr. Harding has taken occasion to point out that if aggressive competition with foreign ships is to be effectively conducted by the United States government it cannot give consideration to political factors.

U. S. CAN'T LIMIT
RUM PRESCRIPTIONS

By Associated Press
New York—Federal Judge Knox
Wednesday declared void that portion of the Volstead act which limited the amount of liquor which a physician may prescribe and granted an injunction restraining prohibition enforcement authorities from interfering with the practice of Dr. Samuel W. Lambert.

Senator Anton Kuuck, who will
lead the opposition, announced that he would not attempt to force a vote
but would give members plenty of
time to study the changes to be proposed. A large number of amend-

The cold will continue Wednesday

WARMER WEATHER COMING

Appleton's wintry release will be short lived, according to the weather prediction for tonight and Thursday. Continued rise in temperature is promised tonight and Thursday. The weather department warns of a possible frost in the east and south portions tonight, indicating that it probably will take another day before May gets back to normal.

The central west apparently was hard hit by the momentary return of winter, upper Wisconsin, the northern Michigan peninsula, Minnesota, northern Nebraska, South Dakota and Iowa being the chief sufferers. Special dispatches to Omaha, indicated heavy damage to fruit trees and vegetable crops in the last three states.

7 TO 16 AMERICANS HELD Government To Ransom Captives, Foreign Minister Of China Hints

By Associated Press
Shanghai—Forty-four foreigners, including at least seven Americans, held in the hills back of Lincheng by the Suchow train bandits, "are almost dead" from lack of food and clothing and exposure, according to a message received here from Lincheng.

The telegram, received by the Asia
Development company said:
"Captives almost dead from ex-posure, long marches. Foodless and un clothed. Bandits willing to negotiate, but troops ordered to capture them. Missionary women sent to Tsinan Fu. Those still held by the bandits include B. Powell, J. C.
Solomon, Major Finger and son, Major Allen and son, William Smith,
Leon Friedman, V. Bimbe, Emilia Gensburger, Theodore Saphiere, Chevalier Musso."

ONLY 12 NAMES
The above list names only 12 captives, but a telegram received from Mr. Friedman at Lincheng, brother of Leon, one of the prisoners, says that 14 still are held by the bandits
and that negotiations are proceeding for their release.

Friedman's telegram added "the outlook is favorable."

The American Chamber of Commerce of Shanghai cabled a vigorous resolution to the state department at Washington and is sending Dr. J. A.
Snell of the Southern Methodist mission, to Suchow with supplies, hoping the bandits will permit him to minister to the prisoners.

province to comply with all the requests of the Suchow train bandits, who have been holding for ransom a number of Americans and other foreigners, diplomatic circles were not optimistic over the prospect of an early release of the captives.

The foreign ministers expressed the opinion that the Chinese cabinet was willing to pay the necessary ransom
but pointed out that the ministers

W. S. FORD IS CHAIRMAN OF PUBLIC FORUM

Sunday Evenings Will Be Continued Next Fall With Lively Topics

That the People's Forum program will be continued next fall with its emphasis on such subjects as will give the people a chance to hear the speaker has presented his views was decided at a meeting of the People's Forum general committee on Tuesday afternoon in the council chamber of the city hall. W. S. Ford was elected president of the forum committee. Mr. S. C. Rosebush, first vice president, Gustave Keller, second vice president, and J. Robert secretary. F. E. Buchanan, treasurer.

Appointment of committees also was made by the general committee. Dr. H. E. Peabody will succeed Dr. Samuel Plante as chairman of the program committee with Dr. Plante acting as advisor. Chairman of the finance committee will be Dr. J. H. Ruan and H. C. Humphrey. J. A. Kahn will be chairman of the finance committee which included Louis Bonin, William Zuehlke, William Fountain and John Diderich.

The names of Joseph Kofford and Miss Muriel Kelly were added to the publicity committee of which John Riedl is chairman. W. O. Theede and H. L. Post were retained as members of the committee while Gustave Keller and Lee C. Rasey were released for service on other committees. The usher committee was appointed without change and includes J. T. Ingold, chairman, W. E. Rasing, Fred Aylenworth, W. E. Smith, W. H. Buins, George Sweetman and John Mullen.

WOMEN ARRANGE MUSIC
The personnel of the music department has been changed to include only women members. Mrs. H. K. Pratt was appointed chairman and Mrs. J. T. Quinlan as vice chairman and Mrs. J. P. Frank, Mrs. William Nolan, Mrs. Eric Lundberg and Mrs. S. W. Murphy as members.

The financial report of the forum which was made public early in March just after the final number of the program was formally accepted by the members present at the meeting. The report shows the expenditures for this year to have been greater than any year before while the proceeds were less. There is a balance in the treasury of more than $60 with which to start next year's program.

Snow Saved Plants From Biting Cold

The next few days will reveal more clearly whether Tuesday's miniature snowstorm and frost caused mentionable damage to tender fruit trees and other vegetation.

Farmers agree that had it not been for the snow which covered the tender plants like a blanket all vegetables would have been frost bitten. Small grain, such as wheat and oats, were immune.

The general sentiment, however, is that the frost did no damage to speak of and unless it is followed by a more severe frost Wednesday evening there is no cause to worry.

The snow while being out of place and very uncommon at this time of the year was considered welcome, as the moisture is concerned, although warm rain would have been much more preferable.

HELEN DIDERRICH IS BEST SPEAKER

Wins High School Extempore Contest—Marshall In College Event

Miss Helen Diderich won the first prize in the preliminary extempore speaking contest at Appleton high school on Tuesday evening while Wallace Marshall won second and Maurice Peerenboom third. Although girls are not considered eligible for the interscholastic contest which is being conducted by Lawrence college on May 15 they may and do compete in the preliminary event at the high school and it is possible for them to win highest honors in the final of the preliminary contests.

It is the policy at Appleton high school to include girls in all the public speaking work while it is the policy at Lawrence not to exclude but to encourage girls to take up major public speaking events. Because the college wishes to attract the best male talent to its public speaking department no girls are allowed in the interscholastic event. In event that a girl is awarded first place at Appleton high school, the second place winner will represent the school in the college contest, providing of course that the second is a man.

Lodge Will Make Final Decision On Plans For New Temple Here

Masonic members of Appleton have been notified by the building committee for the new temple that the general meeting at 7:30 Thursday evening will be held at the high school auditorium instead of Waverly lodge rooms. This was done because of the possibility of about 400 persons attending.

VALLEY DENTISTS SEE DIET CLINIC

Appleton Men Conduct First Demonstration Of Kind At Meeting

Appleton Dental Study club held a corrective diet clinic Tuesday at the meeting of the Fox River Valley Dental society in Neenah. The clinic was the first of its kind to be given in the valley and showed the proper foods to be used for both good health and the preservation of good teeth.

Nearly 200 persons attended the meetings which started at 9:30 in the morning and continued until late in the afternoon.

Dr. M. L. Christensen of Oshkosh was elected president of the society. Dr. J. M. Higgins of Chilton, vice president, and Dr. C. A. Cheney of Fond du Lac, secretary-treasurer. The next meeting of the dentists of the valley will be held in Oshkosh.

A. office at New York and to the state Y. M. C. A. office at Milwaukee. The former copy will be used in the preparation of the annual year book which contains a statistical record of all the Y. M. C. # THE PEOPLE'S AID

(The Post-Crescent herewith calls attention to the special service offered its readers through the People's Aid column. It desires to be of service in helping solve special problems vexing the public. Any matters pertaining to public service which are not satisfactory may be aired in this column.

Public officials and persons in public life have consented to cooperate with this newspaper in answering all inquiries relating to public service, receive suggestions for the improvement thereof or to clear up any misunderstanding regarding the matter. From time to time Appleton residents have availed themselves of this service and have profited by it.)

The People's Aid:

There is a bad hole in the pavement on Pacific near the concrete bridge. This ought to be filled up or plastered over with cement before it causes accidents. The hole was made when a ditch was dug there and a depression is left that nearly broke the springs on my car when I ran over it.

W.D.

Answer:

The writer of this communication probably has reference to a depression on Vine-st near the bridge. The depression was caused by the water department's cutting through to provide water service. The street department will repair this part of the street in a few weeks when it undertakes its regular improvement and repair work.

Keep Up Appleton's Record As Cleanest City, Mayor Urges

Mayor Henry Reuter has appealed to the civic pride of Appleton residents in order that they may do their part in the city's annual cleanup period now in progress.

He not only appeals to civic pride but places a great deal of confidence in it. It is one of the things that has made and kept Appleton a clean, safe, healthful, and beautiful city for many years.

Appleton's annual clean-up period began on May 1 and will continue until May 15, according to a recent decision of the common council and the committee on streets and bridges. During that time all refuse, rubbish, litter, trash and ashes are to be placed in containers along street curbs convenient for hauling. Beginning with May 15, the city pick-up wagons will start on their routes to haul all refuse to the dumping grounds. Those who do not care to avail themselves of this free service have been enjoined to remove all rubbish from their premises before pickup period begins.

"Our people must have sufficient pride in their own property and in the city as a whole to keep their premises in good shape," the mayor said. "The law enjoining cleanup should merely be a reminder; civic pride should be the prime inducement."

"It is this feeling, partly, that has kept our city in the fine condition that it is. You will find that for cleanliness, beauty and general upkeep, Appleton ranks considerably higher than the average city. I have found, it so in my travels within the state and up and down the country."

"This is especially true of Appleton's streets. We have a good system of pavements here and they are, as a whole, kept in good repair."

The mayor also pointed to the homes in the city and the class of home owners. This city has no tenement houses and no district equivalent to the "slums." It is quite impossible to place one's hand upon any residence district in the city which one would blush to show strangers.

"We take strangers about the city," he continued, "and all that they have to say is, 'What a fine condition the city is in.' It has been this way for years. The people, it seems, have gotten into the habit of keeping their premises attractive and in good repair."

"My idea of a clean city is keeping streets and parks in good condition, keeping the city free of promiscuous billboards, repair, keeping yards free of all fire and disease breeding rubbish."

"The new zoning ordinance, while probably not making the city any cleaner, will make it a better city by restricting commercial and manufacturing districts and providing more fresh air, sunlight and better conditions around the homes."

Although the street department wagons will not haul away garbage during the pickup period, the mayor urged all families to keep their premises free of this form of refuse by either burning it or having it hauled away privately.

I SPIED TODAY

NO, I CAN'T

Can you beat it! Saturday we cleaned up the yard and shed where we had just moved. Of all rubbish and junk in the shed we found an old empty beer keg full of old cans and broken glassware. We put all this out on the curb to be hauled away. Monday afternoon when he came home from town the beer keg had disappeared but the junk was dumped on the curb. Some one is surely going to get a well flavored keg.

BARNUM WAS RIGHT

While I was in the Rademacher grocery store on Superior st Tuesday evening, a man and his wife drove up in a Ford and came into the store. The woman ordered some doughnuts. The man, to be friendly, casually asked the grocer from what bakery he got his doughnuts.

Disregarding the crowded store, the woman opened up a fusillade of abuse on the husband. "Now see here," she said, "it is none of your 'business' where he buys his doughnuts. I will give you to understand that I am doing the buying for the family, so keep still."

Poor hubby kept still, of course, and stood there flushed and meek as a lamb.

IMPOLITE COEDS

Year after year, I have seen Lawrence college girls do impolite things but Saturday afternoon four of them infuriated me. The four of them walking abreast met a woman with a baby buggy. They advanced, laughing and talking and paying no attention to the women. Rather than run into them the woman pushed the buggy off the sidewalk and let them pass. She then had to tug and pull to get it back on the sidewalk.

CROWS BOTHER ROBINS

There have been a number of crows around our house and they are pestering the poor robins. Sunday morning I was sitting out on the front porch and I heard an awful lot of noise. I looked up in a tree at the side of the house and saw a crow pulling a long string out of the robin's nest. One robin was trying all it could to keep the crow away but it could not do much. I felt sorry for the robin so I threw a stone at the crow and a few away but they do not stay away very long so we keep our eyes on them and protect the robins.

MUSIC EXCITES DOG

Monday night about 9:30 three girls were walking west on the avenue, accompanied by a large dog. Coming toward them were two men, evidently foreigners who had been imbibing too freely of "the cup that cheers." One of them pulled a mouth organ out of his pocket and began to play it loudly.

Spray Fruit Trees —For Safety

What the big fruit growers have done to produce fruits free from spots and blemishes is sound advice to anyone wishing to grow clean and wholesome fruit.

Insects and fungus growth, when neglected, will ruin many a prosperous crop. Just a little care and forethought on your part now will save you loss and disappointment later.

Now — while the leaves are forming and trees are budding — is the proper time to spray for disease prevention.

One pound of these insecticides will make from 10 to 35 gallons of spray depending on the nature of the disease to be treated for.

The Value of Personal Contact

PERSONAL contact is essential to the growth of complete understanding.

When business operations and business organizations were small the employer could know his employees personally and the merchant could know his customers. All had the advantage that comes from the intimacy of close, personal acquaintanceship. Misunderstandings were easily adjusted. Every man knew every other man as a citizen and as a friend, and there was no suspicion of motives.

Today, when big enterprise is the order of business; when large accumulations of capital are essential to the accomplishment of undertakings of real value to the public, the several groups are denied the advantage of this personal contact.

Recognizing this handicap, the management of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has established a system of direct personal contact with the great body of employees and through them with the public.

The management maintains close, personal relations with the employees through the Department of Industrial Relations, where the employer and employee get together on common ground to discuss and settle, in friendly conference questions of mutual interest.

To promote still closer relationship, the Board of Directors, as a body, make frequent visits to refineries and to the field, where they meet and confer with the great body of employees.

The value of this personal contact is reflected in the harmonious relations which exist between the Company and the earnest, loyal, hard-working employees, who thriftily invest their savings in the Company's business and who have added interest in seeing that the Company's customers get efficient service.

seems to put a new spirit into the heart. The man who at other times is indifferent to appearances, will come forth in his overalls and jumper, prepared for heroic deeds with rake, spade and bonfire.

This impulse toward industry should be worked for all it is worth. A Clean Up Day or Week should be appointed in every community. The home folks should all be organized into an army of anti-litter workers, each family detailed to clean up its own refuse. Also they should be induced to add some touch of beauty to their grounds. Municipal authorities should be urged to make careful arrangements for street cleaning for the season. Landlords should be reminded that their buildings will rent better if kept well painted and repaired.

An incessant stream of visitors passes through our towns today, and Appleton is under constant inspection by visitors. These folks form impressions, not much from superficial appearances of prosperity like costly buildings, as by the degree of neatness and taste shown in the care and improvement of dwellings and their surroundings.

Indications like these reflect the character of the people who live in a place. A city that keeps itself scrubbed and combed, whose homes show a love for beauty, by neat lawns and pretty flowers, gains a name for self respect and culture. Visitors pass along the word that it's a fine town.

Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

ACCOLIUM AND I AGREE
Letters from one who seems to have a thinking machine of his own. Incidentally I've been wondering lately whether there is not need for a nation wide educational campaign with this for a slogan: "Drive your own thinking machine."
"Dear Doctor Brady: Assuming that we need iodine, can we take it in the form of tincture of iodine? If so, what should be the daily dosage to supply the deficiency in the diet?"
"Does bran contain all the vitamins in large amounts: what vitamins does it contain? Does it contain calcium and iron and other mineral needed by the body?"
"Prof. McCollum of John Hopkins University School of Hygiene says that every adult should have at least a quart of milk a day, that we should eat much less meat, potatoes and bread, that we should eat an abundance of leafy vegetables, that even root vegetables do not supply the needs of the body in vitamins and mineral salts. He recommends to one suffering with chronic digestive troubles that he let absolutely alone for a month all meats, bread, potatoes and sugar, and afterwards eat only sparingly of these things. I suppose you will agree with him in general, but do you agree that we should largely substitute milk and eggs for meat? He says nothing about using bran and whole wheat bread. I have been using wheat bran, and it has cured me of constipation. But does it supply vitamins and mineral salts as leafy vegetables do?"
"You recommend molasses in place of refined sugar. What about honey, corn syrup, sorghum and maple syrup? Do these contain vitamins and mineral salts? Are they free from the objectionable features of refined white sugar?"
"If you think these questions worth answering you will find enclosed a stamped self-addressed envelope bearing my address. Respectfully yours, "C. F. E."

A fairly strict examination. As it is, I'm going to take two or three days to write the answer. As for Prof. McCollum, let me seize this opportunity to proclaim that it is quite safe to assume as a working rule that any teaching, pronunciation or outliving of any member of the McCollum family concerning vitamins or other matters of nutrition is correct.

It was my understanding that Prof. McCollum considered a quart of milk a day essential for every child. And now I find that every child requires at least a quart of fresh milk every day for normal growth and nutrition, and that adults may do very well with a pint a day, or none if they have a daily ration sufficiently varied in other respects, especially if they have some relish or green or leafy vegetables every day. Cabbage, lettuce, celery (if the tops are eaten), parsley, green onions (if the tops are eaten), spinach, asparagus, beet greens, dandelion greens or any other greens. Wheat bran contains the water soluble (antiscorbutic) vitamin, but lacks the fat soluble (antirachitic) and the antiscorbutic factors. Whole wheat contains the first two (in the wheat germ), but lacks the scurvy preventing factor. Some supplementary items rich in the scurvy preventing factor which wheat and bran lack are: germinated cereals, lemon juice, orange juice, raspberry juice, tomato juice, cooked onions, cabbage raw or cooked, milk, cottage or Dutch cheese, apples, string beans, lettuce.

If it is impossible to obtain fresh sea fish and shell fish to furnish food iodine, a single drop of tincture of iodine in a glass of water once a day during each third month would supply the body with iodine.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Ben Toild
I'd like your opinion about my case of nervous indigestion. Have been told I have too little acid in my stomach.—D. C. R.
Answer—And that knowledge makes you nervous and you have indigestion? If the doctor was capable of determining that you have too little acid in your stomach it is probable that he can advise you about your trouble. The "nervous indigestion" part of it is your imagination.
When Man Had a Hair Coat
In an answer to "Trene" you said, "We must remember that man once wore a heavy coat of hair." When was that?—C. L.
Answer—Quite a while before he began wearing one with a belt in the back. My memory isn't good for dates, but it was either the second or third era of the stone age.

Civilization Found In Mexico Centuries Ago
(From The Pathfinder.)
Before the great pyramid was built and while most of the little-known world was still plunged in the depths of barbarism there developed in the western hemisphere a great aboriginal civilization which was destined to produce the highest intellectual achievement of ancient America. Though history sets the date when began the civilization of America with the advent of Votan about 1000 B. C., recent finds in the Valley of Mexico, near Mexico City, indicate a high degree of civilization at least 3000 years earlier—90 centuries before King Tutankhamen lived.

Excavations in charge of Prof. William Niven, noted mineralogist and explorer, reveals traces of five distinct civilizations, one above the other. The oldest relics found in that section were taken from a depth of 40 feet below the surface and are supposed to be 8000 years old.

The discoveries, apparently, prove that the two earlier civilizations in that part of the world were developed by people with slanting eyes and Mongolian features, who used strange symbols and figures which learned Chinese connected with the Chinese legation in Mexico City recognize as primitive Chinese characters. This supports the popular theory that America was first peopled by Asiatics who came over by way of the Pacific or Bering Strait.

The remains of the supposed Mongolian civilization lie buried under drifted beds of sand and gravel, the whole covered by a blanket of from one to several yards in thickness of closely compressed volcanic ash which geologists estimate to be anywhere from 5,000 to 7,000 years old. Human skeletons are found in all kinds of positions, indicating that death from a volcano descended unexpectedly and swiftly on these early people. There are places where skeletons of whole families lie huddled together.

Temple ruins have produced many strange clay figures. From these it has been determined what these people looked like. One of their gods wears a conical hat, representative of a volcano, with flames leaping from its crown (the flames of the crater). This was the fire god who was revered as the creator of the sun and moon, each in turn represented by lesser gods. There is also a figure of Quetzalcoatl, known as the mother of all living. She was the Eve of this ancient Mexican civilization and is probably the oldest of all the goddesses of these extinct people. Originally represented as the wife of Ome Teotl, the god of fire previously referred to, she was believed to have been the first woman to bear children. She always gave birth to twins, which she is represented holding in her lap.

These relics are preserved in a museum in Mexico City along with 30,000 other objects pertaining to five prehistoric civilizations uncovered by Prof. Niven during his 14 years of excavating in Mexico.

TWO FLOORS OF GOOD THINGS TO WEAR

A CONTRAST
Something like a year or so ago it was estimated that the deficit of the federal treasury for the present fiscal year would run about $200,000,000. Instead of this, as the year draws to a close, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon estimates that there will be a surplus of more than $125,000,000. This is a notable achievement. It is not like anything we have had in government, federal or state, that the present generation can recall. Instead of government expenditures decreasing they have mounted each year until tax rates and taxes have doubled and trebled. Every year as long as we all can remember the politicians have gone into campaigns for office charging the ones they desired to supplant with extravagance and waste. They have made the most devout pledges of economy and promised to reduce taxes, but we do not know one of them that has ever made good.

It has remained for the Harding administration to put some real meaning into what has always heretofore been a platform platitude of economy. Mr. Harding when he took office set about the task of conducting the federal government at less cost. He put in the budget system under a budget director. Both have worked splendidly and strange to relate even congress, which never in the past has paid the slightest attention to promises of economy, has been forced to be less extravagant. Not only this, but the administration has, through genuine retrenchment, been enabled to reduce federal taxes, and Mr. Mellon is now considering recommendations for a further reduction of income taxation.

This is the kind of government and administration that counts for something, and that ought to count with the people. When we put it alongside of what is happening down at Madison where politicians are quarreling among themselves over how Much More shall be squeezed from the people in taxes instead of trying to economize and reduce taxes, we get a significant contrast of intelligent, constructive, useful government, as against radical, irresponsible, ignorant government. What the government at Washington is doing toward relieving the tax burden and economizing in public expenditures is of real value to the people. It is something more than the customary vapors of politicians. There is just as much room for economy at Madison as there is at Washington, relatively speaking, but all we find down there is scheming to increase taxes and to punish those who are trying to conduct an honest business and contribute to the prosperity of the state.

THE SPRING CLEAN-UP
Some genius conceived the notion that a Clean Up Week or Clean Up Day, if appointed during the spring months, would appeal to the popular psychology at that particular time. It did so, and today such occasions are observed in thousands of communities.

The desire for improvement seems to influence people at this season. If you asked a man to clean up disorder around his place in July, he might evasively postpone the suggestion.

But in spring some lure of outdoors, emphasized by the bright sunshine and soft breezes and cheerful bird songs,

THE CHESTER GRANT
The Angora government has signed the agreement whereby the Chester concession, so called, is officially promulgated. The act is fraught with exciting eventualities, if not grave ones, for France has declared that if Turkey persisted in making this agreement with American interests, and Washington acquiesced, events of "first diplomatic magnitude" might be precipitated.

Angora signed the agreement, according to official announcement from the seat of the Ismet government, just as parleys at Lausanne on settlement of the Turkish situation were warming up. Signed, too, as France gave notice that her forces facing the Turks on the Syrian front were being reinforced to 46,000 men as an offset to the Turkish mobilization in that territory.

European politics, once far removed from Americans, are still pretty distant, despite the attention they have commanded since the war in the American press. It is difficult for the average American to become more than a superficial student of European politics and the Turkish situation, despite recent favorable propaganda that has been carried on here for Ismet's regime, generally evokes impatience, and more or less sweeping condemnation of the Turk.

The developments, now that the Chester grant is executed, may come slowly or precipitately. Even as these lines are being put into print events of grave import may be transpiring. Europe and the Near east especially are like matches that require no special substance to scratch them. And almost any time a heel, carelessly or by crafty design, may set them off.

PERJURY COMMON IN OUR COURTS
Judge John C. Townes has resigned as dean of the University of Texas to devote the remaining years of his life to fighting perjury. He declares that justice is defeated by falsehood stated under oath.

"When men and women perjure themselves, coldly, calculatingly, and cleverly," he says, "then truthful testimony is hard, is impossible to get." And he charges that lawyers disregard the ethics of their profession to such an extent that the public suspects testimony is framed up by them.

Judge Townes' warning is one that cannot be cast aside. It is a fact that the public has a strange point of view concerning testimony in court. Expert witnesses, who have construed the truth as something that may be modified by technical considerations, have taught the masses that to state an untruth or to evade the truth is not always lying, or to use Judge Townes' right word, perjury. Lawyers are most to blame for the customary qualifications of truth.

Swindlers Use Charge Account To Ply Schemes
(James K. Woods, in The Business Magazine.)
Every large department store knows the charge account operator. She—for the charge account swindler is almost always a woman—ranks third among the professional and amateur crooks who nibble away a considerable portion of the profits of the store. Only the dishonest employee and the shoplifter take larger bites.

Into a department store in St. Louis about a year ago walked a young woman, neat, well dressed, dignified. Casually inspecting the counter displays, she sauntered down one aisle and up the next. Now and then she paused for a glance at an exceptionally attractive showcase, then wandered on again.

Suddenly she stopped. She had dropped her handkerchief. She bent to pick it up.

For more than half an hour the young woman strolled about the store. She went from floor to floor, from section to section. During that half hour she dropped her handkerchief and picked it up 11 times.

Not once during her visit to the store did she lay her fingers upon a piece of merchandise. She did not even approach a counter upon which goods lay uncovered. Yet as she approached the exit to leave the store a house detective touched her on the arm.

"Madame," he said quietly, "I shall have to ask you to step into the office for a moment."

And without protest she went. Once in the office, however, she began to bluster. The detective, ignoring her objection, reached over, opened the small vanity case she carried and drew out a little handful of slips of paper.

Of these slips, there were 11. Each time the young woman had picked up her handkerchief, she picked up also, one of the slips of paper. They were sales slips, lost or tossed away by careless customers. To the young woman they had been treasure trove for she was a charge-account operator in search of names of customers with accounts at this department store.

Her method of operation if her plans had not been interrupted by the detective would have been simple. To her most of the sales slips would have been valueless. Most of them recorded but cash purchases. On one or two of them, however, she would have found the notation, "Charge, take." From these latter slips she would have copied the names and addresses of the customers. Equipped with these names and addresses she would have returned, confident of her ability to swindle the store out of as much merchandise as she could carry away.

Her confidence would have been justified. Only mere accident could have prevented her success.

Harness Geysers To Furnish Power
(H. H. Dunn, in Popular Mechanics.)
The largest group of geysers in California, in Sonoma county, is being harnessed to the steam engine to provide power. At the middle of February, one geyser had been tapped and connected with a steam engine, where it yielded 150 horsepower, which was put to work immediately drilling the "well" with which another geyser is to be tapped, and likewise connected with another engine.

The ultimate object of the project is to provide steam enough from the whole group of geysers to drive turbines in a power house, thereby supplying electric current at a cost price below even that at which hydroelectric power can be produced, to a dozen large towns and cities.

Only about one-half of the steam available from the first geyser has been taken, owing to errors in drilling the first well and to lack of experience in keeping the steam confined and hot between the geyser and the engine. Plans under which the work is now being done provide for the task at approximately 90 per cent of the steam from each geyser tapped in the future.

Though volcanic heat has been harnessed in Italy, this is the first time that power has been taken from the subterranean fires of the new world. The method of taking the steam from the geysers is comparatively simple. A well is driven at an angle from a point some hundred or more feet from the mouth of the geyser, to strike the throat of the geyser at a depth of 200 to 400 feet, this depth depending on the solidity of the earth and rock formation surrounding the geyser.

Closely following the drill goes the two-inch pipe, and when this tube breaks through the side of the throat of the geyser, the steam, under considerable pressure, follows it as an outlet, rather than the rougher and usually twisted natural vent. The upper end of the two-inch pipe is then capped, an exhaust and a safety valve put on, and the steam conveyed in a small pipe to the engine.

SCHOOL PROGRESS MAJOR OBJECT OF CHAMBER GROUP

Community Welfare Committee
Also Backs Legion In Celebration.

Schools will be the first activity on the major program of the community welfare committee of Appleton Chamber of Commerce, according to the plans made at the organization meeting of the committee Monday afternoon. Lee C. Rasey, principal of Appleton high school, will be asked to meet with the committee early next week to make plain several matters in regard to the schools which the committee feels it should know before it proceeds with its plan to further school interests.

The matter of the Fourth of July celebration was discussed with a representative of the American Legion who had been asked to be present at the committee meeting. The committee went on record as backing the legion 100 per cent in its big program. This celebration will be presented to practically every chamber of commerce committee which is being called.

Since the drawing up of the major program of the committee, the bridge question has practically been settled and it is understood by the committee that the renumbering of homes and the changing of names of streets is to be accomplished in the near future. The committee decided, however, to continue its interest in the latter project until it is completed.

Other things toward which this group of men is turning its attention are garbage disposal, community building and union depot. A survey of what is done with garbage in other cities will be taken at once and then the committee will have a plan to propose for Appleton. There is also a supplementary program for this committee which will not be undertaken this year.

BADGER SCHOOL IS LEADER IN MEET AT GRAND CHUTE

Will Have Most Entries Of Township In County Field
Meet May 18

Badger school carried the greatest number of points in the Grand Chute field meet last week at Triangle school preparatory to the county school field day in Appleton on May 18.

That school will probably be a formidable contender for the big prize silver cup that is to be offered by the Post-Crescent on that day. But, it is difficult to say which of the individual contestants has a chance for the small silver loving cup, which will also be donated by the Post-Crescent to the person winning the greatest number of points on county field day. Prize medals will be offered by Miss Florence S. Jenkins, county superintendent, for each event.

In the Grand Chute meet, Badger school won four events, or probably five: Underhill school won two and Woodlawn school one, if not two. The one-half mile race, which was run separately by boys and girls, will yet have to be decided in order to determine whether Mable Tolm of Woodlawn or George Krickberg of Badger is the winner.

The undisputed representatives of the town are Herbert Mossholder, Woodlawn; Joseph McCarthy, Underhill; Leonard Miller, Badger; Clarence Nagreen, Badger; George Krickberg, Badger. Other schools competing were Twin Willows, Whispering Pines and Triangle school. The results of the competitive events are given below. Winners of first place in each event will represent the town in the county field meet.

Invest Where You Know Your Money Is Safe, Your Income Sure

How can you do it?

Follow the lead of the 25,000 Wisconsin men and women, and the 1,000 in other states, who during the past five years have bought, direct from the companies, with the State's approval, $12,500,000 of the notes and preferred shares of Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Co. and Wisconsin Gas & Electric Co.

Tens of thousands of Wisconsin men and women, during those five years, have lost their savings in speculative ventures. Not one of our investors has lost, or will lose, a dollar. All buyers of our securities have received interest or dividends regularly as due—dividends four times a year, interest twice a year. All who had need to dispose of our securities have been able to do so, on short notice, by having them resold, through our Securities Department, to new buyers, at a cost of only $1 per hundred.

Our customers and other friends here at home, requiring each year more of our services, have bought a $12,500,000 interest in the business, and are sharing its profits. Their money has financed all of the growth of Wisconsin Gas & Electric Co., and a substantial part of the growth of Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Co.

May 1 we placed on sale $500,000 of the 7% participating preferred shares of Wisconsin Gas & Electric Co. and $3,000,000 of the 7% cumulative preferred shares of Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light Co. Issuance and sale of these shares was authorized by the Railroad Commission of Wisconsin to finance, in part, this year's growth of the business.

The shares, either issue, cost $100 each. Seven per cent cash dividends, on paid-up shares, start from date of purchase. If you buy shares out of your current savings—$5 down and $5 or more monthly per share—we pay you 7% interest on your payments, credited on the last payment. You can withdraw your payments at any time, before the last one, but without interest.

The winners in the afternoon will compete for the scholarships in the evening when the winners will be given 12 minutes in which to discuss another current topic. The extemporaneous men may bring along any material which they wish and will be given one hour for preparation after they have chosen their subjects.

Although the contests are under the direction of Prof. F. W. Orr, most of the managerial work in the past two years has been done by Edmund Tink, Mr. Tink, who has been prominent as a debater will graduate in June.

Library Gains 1,926 Patrons; Adds 2,030 Volumes During Year

City Institution's Demands Are Greatest Ever Known, Annual Report Of Miss Day Shows—Walls Need Painting

That greater demands are being made upon the Appleton free public library than ever before is seen from the annual report of Miss Florence C. Day, librarian, presented to the library board last week.

At the end of last year, 1,926 more book borrowers were using the library than at the beginning of the year. The number of borrowers was 5,543 which represents an increase of 60 per cent.

A total of 2,030 books was added to the library during the year so that at the end of the 12 months there were 17,394 books. The total circulation for the year was 56,707 volumes. The children's department reported 3,750 books and a circulation of 31,498, which shows that proportionately children were principal frequenters. The financial statement lists $11,740, receipts, $11,652.37 expenditures and a cash balance on Dec. 31, 1922, of $88.60.

ITEMS OF REPORT

Miss Day's report is in part as follows:

"Receipts: Unexpended balance, $1,083.70; city appropriation, $12,000; interest from all sources, $145.16; fines, lost books, etc., $604.48; rental collection, $85.05; total, $11,740. Payments: Books, $1,771.01; periodicals, $495.86; binding, $552.17; salaries, library service, $6,340.61; janitor salary, $734; light, $236.71; permanent improvements, $615.14; stationery and supplies, $291.14; printing, $107.80; postage, express, freight, $90.19; insurance, $4.35; other expenses, $315.75; total expended, $11,652.37; balance on hand, $88.60; total, $11,740.97.

"All library activities have been conducted, as far as conditions have permitted, under departments. Because of the limited number of persons on the staff, it has been found necessary to shift some work into departments where it would not otherwise be done.

"The reference department renders some of the most valuable service that the library can extend to its patrons. Community, school, club and various other reference needs are served. Groups of books have been reserved for Lawrence college and Appleton high school students.

"A permanent file of references for club topics for all women's clubs in the city which desire this service is kept. In this way material for club papers may be looked up in advance.

CHINA IS NATION WITHOUT ANY RULE

Brother Of W. S. Ford Writes From Foochow Describing Chaotic Condition

In a recent letter from E. L. Ford of the Anglo-Chinese college at Foochow, China, to his brother, W. S. Ford, director of Appleton Vocational school, the former states they are still living under a government which is practically no government at all. Dr. Sun, he said, has reentered Canton and the forces that were in Foochow have moved to the southern parts of the province on their way to join Dr. Sun in Canton. Some of the force, it seems, has reached Canton but the larger part is still in South Fklien.

According to Mr. Ford the present de facto government is under the control of men with northern sympathies though not directly in touch with the north. The real power, he goes on to say, is probably in the hands of the local members of the old revolutionary party that brought on the revolution. This was Dr. Sun's party.

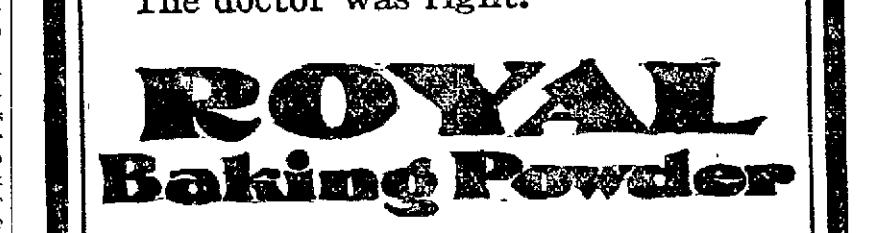

That the northern party is actually planning to retake Foochow and to use it as a base from which to work against Canton would seem to be indicated from the fact many thousands of northerners have entered the western part of the province. Mr. Ford states that the financial straits of the country make it almost impossible for any government to succeed and it has been thrown into this condition because the previous governor, General J. J. is said to have collected the taxes ahead not only for the present year but for 1924 and 1925.

Mr. Brusewitz also announced that the gang maintenance crew of concrete highways will probably start work Wednesday. Its work has to do with Taking into consideration also the work by contractors on four new concrete stretches of road this year, work in the county will furnish jobs for about 200 men.

Fifteen hundred men will be employed on roadwork in northeastern Wisconsin, according to information from O. C. Rollman, district engineer for the state highway department. A large proportion of the men will be employed on new roadwork in Brown county where about 35 miles of concrete is to be built.

"Firme amigos," he cried to them in their own tongue. "This man let me get away the night I first came around the wire. I had a bullet through his shoulder. There was no reason this side of hell why he should have let me go, but he did. It is not one way to forget. He and his friend go free."

Melody followed Blaze as the Basques opened up to let them through. The poet had begun to understand many things that had been a closed book to him up to now. His fondness for the man grew. He marveled at the unknown with which his friend led the way down the little avenue of hostile guns that could have blown them to pieces with a touch of the finger.

Shut-mouthed, silent, Kildare won the respect of all of them. Bodine smiled contemptuously. Esteban surprised the expression in his eyes.

"You heard, Bodine," he murmured ominously. "It goes for you. When crooks fall out, it's a long drop. You'd better drop out of sight."

Buck tried to interrupt, but the boy waved him down with a word. "Git."

A movement in the crowd made it eloquent. Night was at hand. The whip-poorwill was chanting their moan, the croaking of the toads was heard across the whispering sage. Defeated, broken, tired with their struggling, the weary Basques were alone at last in the gray twilight with the fate that confronted them. They had come to the battle strong and determined, but now, as they turned to begin the long trip back to their homes, they moved with bowed heads. They were beaten.

CHAPTER XXIV
THE RED TRAIL

In the days that followed, Kildare watched Bodine's movements with untiring patience. Acklin had sent Melody and him into the hills again. For hours at a time they would hold a glass on the house on Webster Creek. Life there became as familiar as if they were on the spot. They counted eight men: Buck and seven others. Their features were not recognizable, but the big fellow's size marked him. No one worked. In the heat of midday the Double A riders rarely caught sight of any of them.

Morrow met his men one morning. He had no news. He had heard that one or two of the Basques had packed up the belongings and moved on. Cash made light of it. The fight was over.

He was right, apparently. Blaze had supposed Bodine would kick back once or twice before giving up, but four days had gone by, and he had not stirred from his retreat.

The following morning, however, there were signs of life at the Webster ranch. Shortly after daylight Buck and his men were in the saddle, and by noon they had rounded up their stock, now about three hundred head. An hour later they were in motion, pointed for Winnemucca.

"They're headin' for the railroad, sure as you're born," Melody called to Blaze.

"We can see them from here for an hour or more. When they reach the river, I'm going to hike down there."

Melody studied his friend's face before he spoke again.

"Every once in a while you pull a mysterious crack like that," he finally said. "What you got up your sleeve?"

"It goes back a long ways, old-time. Some day maybe you'll find out," Kildare got to his feet. "But I ain't got any intention of jugging you into trouble. This is my own little affair. I'll wait here, and you can drift back to the Bull's Head."

"You make me sick," the red-haired one answered savagely.

"I don't want to cheat you out of anything," Blaze murmured in his drawing manner. "Come on along, if you feel that way about it."

Their proposed plan received a jolt as they saw Bodine and his men separate at the river. Three of them headed back for the Webster. The distance was so great that Blaze could not tell whether Buck was among those who had gone on or not.

"One of us has got to stay here now, Melody. You wait! I'll go."

By hard riding over a roundabout course, Kildare trailed the moving herd into town. Bodine and the handy-legged man were not among those present. The steers were loaded the next morning, and the six riders who had brought them in immediately returned to the Webster.

Evening found Blaze and Melody in their old nest above Bodine's ranch.

"Looks like a got away to me," Kildare told the poet. "I'd stake my reputation two-thirds of that herd were Double A steers. We ought to see something doing in the morning."

The return of Buck's men from Winnemucca brought thence to a head as Kildare had prophesied.

"You two," Buck said, addressing Shorty and Gloomy, "are so strong for excitement! Suppose you head for town tonight and circle back after it gets dark. Strike into the hills west of here. Morrow may have his eye on us. Rump off a few of Acklin's cattle. Work east tomorrow night. That'll throw them off your trail. It'll look like the Basques had a finger in it. Get to the north before morning. You'll find a lot of places to hole-up for a day or two. Once you pass Hog John's, lay out as long as it seems safe; three days if you can make it. Beat it here then, quick as God'll let you, and pump the lead you want to as you come."

Blaze and Melody saw them leave. But night fell, and in the darkness they swung back and up by the way of Kings River. In twenty-four hours word of the red trail they had left reached the Bull's Head. Cash and his riders combed the wide valleys and narrow canyons. But Bodine's men were safe in the very heart of Acklin's empire.

A guard was placed against a repetition of the slaughter. Guerrilla warfare was something Cash understood. A talk with Kildare revealed that the foreman blamed the raid on the Basques.

After two nights of quiet, Acklin relaxed. He put the incident down for a sporadic attack, a sort of dying blow. But the next night Gloomy and Shorty dashed down from their hiding-place, leaving a gory track to mark the way by which they had come. Below the peak they turned west, and threaded their way into the valley of the Kings. There they slept and ate. Twelve hours later they were safe on Webster Creek.

Bodine could not repress his elation as he waited for them. He and Nez Perce had defied Esteban's order and ridden to Paradise. They had heard a great deal. By ten o'clock they were back on the ranch. Bodine could sleep. He paced up and down the path in front of the house for more than an hour before his two men arrived. He greeted them vociferously.

"Boys, we got 'em! The Basques found a notice nailed on the door of the wool-house in Paradise about eight o'clock this evening. Some of Acklin's men put it there. It says if any more Double A steers are found shot there'll be reprisals; they'll hit back. You must 'a' got a bunch of them. The Basques are askin' each other who killed this bunch of Double A critters. Every man-jack of them suspects his neighbor and is tickled silly. Anything to get Acklin's men turn in. The rest of us will tend to this job for tonight."

"What's on now?" Gloomy inquired. "He won't have any cattle left if we keep this up."

That's ended," Buck began to smile again. "That warehouse is owned on shares by the Basques. Every one of them is interested in it. Thirty or so have this year's clipping here right now. We're going to touch it off. That'll hit every one of them in the well known pocket-book."

Nez Perce laughed. "He's hoppin' round on one leg now, those Basques. When we get done, he won't have no place to put even heem."

An hour from the time the half-breed had emptied a bottle of kerosene over some refuse and lighted it, the big wooden building was in ruins.

A spur of the Santa Rosas separated Paradise Valley from the country that sloped to Quinn River. Old man Lotard, an octogenarian, grazed his sheep in its draws and on the flat mesa that skirted the rim of the valley opposite the Timbered Buttes.

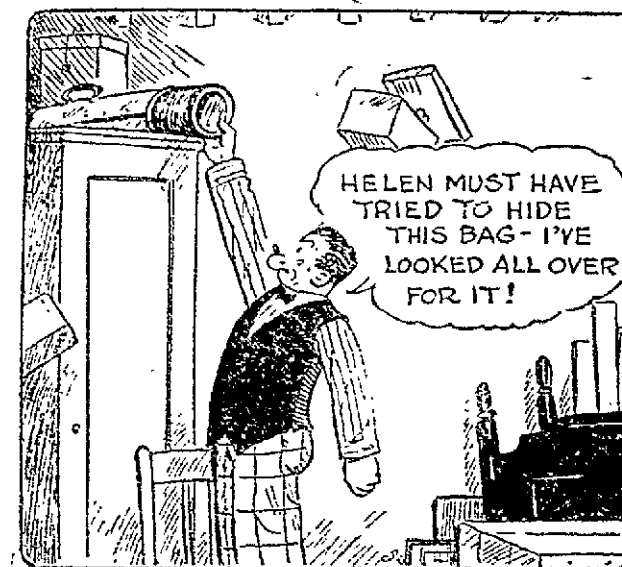

Lotard occupied a shack that stood where the mesa came to a neck in front of the granite outcroppings that rose to high peaks.

The mesa and the tiny valleys beyond were only accessible by means of the narrow bit of land. The old man would look across the chasm that separated his airy from the buttes, but the getting there was quite a different matter. It was a sheer fall of eight hundred feet from the eastern rim of the mesa to Bodine's ranch below. Above the shack there were large pockets in the rocks in which the snow water stored itself. It was a sheep-man's paradise.

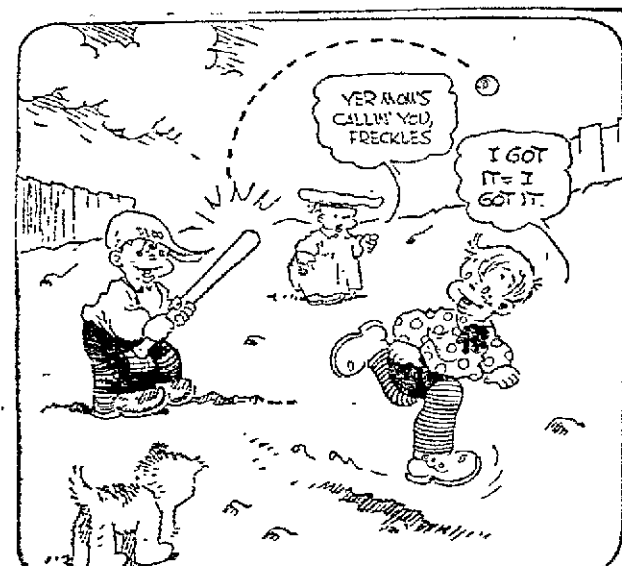

Bodine knew that men like Lotard were looked up to as the heads of their clans. They were uncle, cousin, or grandfather to countless numbers of the Basques in the valley. Marriage tripled and quadrupled the number. A blow at Lotard would hurt a hundred kinsmen.

LAWRENCE TO TACKLE CORNELL, RIPON, BELOIT HERE

Three Stiff Games In Succession Are Carded On 1923 Grid Schedule

Blue And White To Open Season With Stevens Point—Plan To Book Marquette To Fill One Of Open Dates

Lawrence college gridgers, three champions of the Midwest and Little Five conferences, will play four home games out of the seven scheduled thus far for next fall. The 1923 schedule was made public Wednesday by H. D. McChesney, athletic director. Lawrence college will open its pickup chasing activities with Stevens Point normal on Sept. 28. Two weeks later the college will travel to Northwestern at Watertown. On Oct. 20, Beloit, the Blue and White's hardest foe, will play here. Oct. 27, Cornell, Mt. Vernon, Ia., will invade the local grounds and Ripon will be the next visitor here on Nov. 3. This will mean three big home games in succession. Nov. 10 is still open. The season will be finished with Lawrence traveling to St. Paul, to take on Hamline and on Nov. 24 the Lawrenceans will go to Waukesha, to engage in a contest with Carroll. This schedule is so arranged as to give the high school home games the latter part of the season. Efforts will be made by Lawrence to fill the Oct. 6 and Nov. 10 dates with Marquette and the Wisconsin school of Mines. Marquette has several open dates for the start of the season and if the officials of the schools are able to get together the Lawrenceans will meet the famous Hilltoppers for the first time since 1918 when the two schools broke football relations over the attempted use of the "peanut play." "Cub" Buck, assistant coach was recently signed to drill the Blue and White school. He will be aided by A. C. Denney, the new athletic director, who will assume his work at Lawrence next fall.

SPORT VIEWS AND NEWS

Somewhat hampered by cold weather that makes outdoor training out of the question, Coach Fred Trezise and his cinder path stars, are making preparations for the triangular meet Saturday afternoon when Oshkosh and Stevens Point normals will invade the Paper City.

The days when a normal school was regarded as easy victim for a college athletic unit are over. Oshkosh normal with its large enrollment has more than once given Lawrence a bitter fight and Saturday will be no exception.

However, with the experience of the Marquette meet Coach Trezise most likely will take more laurels this time than he will allow the visitors to carry off.

Appleton is expecting a record breaking, baseball history making opening game here Sunday-afternoon when the Paper makers will make their debut with Kaukauna, furnishing the other half of the entertainment.

"Beat Appleton," or words to that effect are on the lips of the Kaukauna fans who will invade the city 100 per cent strong. Tickets are being gobbled up fast and many of the boys will soon be wagering their last cent as to the outcome of the tilt.

Kaukauna has more than one reason to want to beat Appleton. First, there's that ancient neighborly rivalry and secondly, the Electric City is the smallest spoke of the McGilligan wheel, getting in the circuit by inches. The Kaukauna ball magnates will want to show that their club is a pace setter and that the charges that were flung about "too fast a company" was nothing more than hot air.

"Nig" Lane showed that he can hold them down. He was hit at Menasha for a couple of circuit drives but those things are hardly likely to occur in the Brandt park as the drive over the fence is much further than at Menasha where a high fly toward the rightfield is apt to turn into a homer at any time.

Eddie Stumpf, the former Milwaukee Red Sox leader, has gathered together a star combination and the Papermen will have to be on their toes all the time.

Art Bues, former big leaguer, is doing duty for Kaukauna at third base. Bues isn't as young as he used to be but he can still crowd out many of the youngsters. And what's more, Bues is a sure 300 plus wallpaper.

Graby, Kaukauna's recruit shortstop, looks like a comer. He is a product from the sand lots in Milwaukee where he starred in the Amateur league. If Graby can hit like he can field, he has a bright future on the diamond.

FACULTY APPROVES ENTRY OF BADGERS IN REGATTA

By Associated Press
Madison—The faculty committee on student life and interests at the University of Wisconsin approved the entry of Wisconsin crews in the Poughkeepsie regatta "at such time as in the opinion of the Athletic council the crew will adequately maintain the standard set by previous teams." By its action the faculty assured participation of a Badger eight in next year's rowing classic if a strong team is developed.

TRIBES LOSE TO YANKEES, 3 TO 2

Game Is Halted In Seventh Inning On Account of Rain

Cleveland — New York defeated Cleveland, 3 to 2, in the opening game of the series here on Tuesday, rain stopping the play in the seventh inning. Coveleskie outpitched Bob Shawkey, but poor support caused his defeat. Guisto's error paved the way to the Yankee's first run, while a mental nap by Wamby and Sewell's wild throw were the avenues for the champion's two runs in the sixth.

New York ..... 0 0 0 1 2 0—3
Cleveland ..... 0 0 0 2 0 0—2
Batteries: Shawkey and Schang; Coveleskie and O'Neill.

SENATORS 'TRIM TIGERS'

Detroit—While fans warmed themselves around impromptu bonfires that blazed in bleachers and grandstand and ball players swung their arms vigorously to fight the numbing cold, Washington defeated Detroit, 5 to 2, on Tuesday in a game that went through seven icy innings before it was called by Empire Owens. War-north was wild, passing seven men, but three double plays behind him nipped Tiger rallies. Five Washington runs were scored on home runs. Goslin's blow in the first bringing a man home a head of him, while Wade's four bagger two innings later came with two men on the bases.

Washington ..... 2 0 3 0 3 0—5
Detroit ..... 0 0 0 1 0 1—2
Batteries: Warmouth and Charlity; Moore, Johnson and Woodall.

Kinks-o' the Links

How many times has John Ball, the famous English golfer, won the British amateur championship? In what year did he win his first title and when did he annex the last one? Did Ball ever win both the British open and amateur championships in the same year?

John Ball has won the British amateur championship seven times. He scored his first win in 1888 and his seventh victory in 1910. In 1890 Ball won both the open and amateur championships, considered a very extraordinary feat.

Player makes a 20-foot putt that is very accurate. The ball seems to drop in, but hangs on the lip of the cup and hesitates for an instant. It seems that the player will have to take another stroke to sink his ball, but as he takes a step toward the ball, which has been hovering on the very edge of the cup, it falls in. Must the ball drop into the cup instantly or does the player still have to wait after hesitating the ball falls into the cup?

Very often a ball hesitates on the very brink of the cup. If the ball drops in almost instantly then the player does not need to use another shot to complete the hole. However, the player is not allowed to delay his shot in the hope that his ball will finally fall into the cup.

Now They Can Run Faster

Whether girl track stars of the Pennsylvania Railroad System should wear old-fashioned bloomers or should adopt the modern, although abbreviated, running trunks has apparently been settled in favor of the trunks.

At least this is the word from Pittsburgh, Chicago and St. Louis, the big Pennsy regional centers whose girl sprinters blamed their defeat to wind-catching bloomers.

The Philadelphia girls, appearing for the first time in the sightly and almost weightless running trunks, captured first places with alarming regularity. Especially was Betty Schenkel, the most famous girl athlete on the Pennsylvania railroad, a consistent winner. Pennsy's future athletic indoor meets are almost certain to present the spectacle of a solid delegation of girl track event entries clad in running trunks.

H. S. CAGE CARD TO BE DRAWN UP TODAY

A. C. Denney, coach and Leon C. High, athletic manager of the Appleton high school, left for Manitowish to attend the spring meeting of the Fox River Valley High School Athletic conference. The basketball schedule is among the matters slated for consideration in addition to a few minor changes in the football program, which was adopted at a meeting this winter in Oshkosh.

It is understood that the Appleton grid schedule will need some adjustment due to the conflicting dates with Lawrence college.

WEARS QUANT CLOTHES IN "PEG O' MY HEART"

"The quaint dresses, hats and shoes Laurette Taylor wore in enacting the role of Peg in the Metro screen version of J. Hartley Manners' famous play "Peg O' My Heart" which is now at the Elito Theatre, are the same Miss Taylor wore when she made her debut as "Peg" on the stage.

It was in Los Angeles that "Peg O' My Heart" was first produced about two years ago. After a successful run in the western city, Miss Taylor and "Peg" came to New York, and captivated the Eastern metropolis, making a record run for continuous performances.

Upon her arrival in New York to present Peg to Broadway, Miss Taylor had a complete new wardrobe made and put away for her. Keeping the dresses, hats and shoes that she had worn when she made her initial bow in the famous role.

When she decided to appear in the screen version of her greatest success, Miss Taylor took this wardrobe from its storage place and decided to wear it before the camera. Being her initial screen appearance, she felt more like Peg in the quaint old clothes that she had worn in the first presentation in Los Angeles.

One of the dresses Miss Taylor wears in the early episodes of "Peg O' My Heart" is a blue serge which, in keeping with the character is shabby and a very poor fit. The hat is a plain old-fashioned straw with a broad brim trimmed with a few flowers. It is kept bright by polishing with ordinary shoe polish.

The other dress she wears in the

WOLPIN PROMISED PLACE ON CARD IN MILWAUKEE MAY 21

Appleton Middleweight Improving Style—May Meet Nuss In Cream City

Billie Wolpin, the Appleton middleweight, intends to show the Paper City fans that he has the goods.

Twice Billie tried to entertain local ring followers but each time probably due to the haste of preparing for the fights, he failed to go well. Billie has been promised a date in Milwaukee in the near future and it is likely that he will appear on the double header planned in the Babst theater on May 21 when Pinkie Mitchell and some still-to-be-chosen foe, will mix for ten rounds.

Wolpin's opponent is likely to be Jimmy Nuss, the Del Norte slugger. "Wolpin is getting to be a different man," is the claim of his close friends. The Appleton fighter following his scrap with Ehmske decided first of all to get rid of his flat footedness and he has turned to H. C. Williams who is bringing Ed Phillips to the fore. In addition to gym work Wolpin trains on Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday, using "Doc" Williams' "gymnasium" for headquarters. Fifteen rounds of training, including gym work, boxing, shadow boxing and calisthenics is on Williams' menu. This scientific mode of training is doing big things and Wolpin is a much faster man right now than he ever was, according to Williams.

Button also has been promised a place on the Milwaukee card May 21.

early episodes of the picture, is a very plain blouse and skirt of brown cotton material. The hat is a straw with a narrow tapered brim. Several of her toes protrude from the shoes.

In the later episodes of "Peg O' My Heart," Miss Taylor wears dresses of a more opulent style. She had several beautiful gowns designed in New York, which she wears for the first time in the picture.

One of these is a yellow georgette made in bouffant style and trimmed with a design of the same material. It has a round neck, outlined with a lace collar and puff sleeves edged with ruffles of lace. With this is worn salmon slippers and stockings.

King Vidor directed "Peg O' My Heart."

PIMPPLY? WELL, DON'T BE

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound, based on olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c and 30c.

55 Per Cent Of Flour Is Used In Home Baking

So much mourning has been done over the delicatessen habits of modern women that many people believe home baking to be about a lost art. But not so, says The Farm Journal, after an extensive investigation among both farm and town families.

Approximately 110,000,000 barrels of flour are consumed annually in this country. The home cooks use 60,000,000 barrels to 30,000,000 barrels used by bakeries. The rest, not including special cake and pancake flour, is used by hotels, restaurants, hospitals, jails, paper hangers and others, or lost through fire, water, weevils or other wastage.

Most of the pies and cakes are baked at home, for 17 out of every 20 towns and city families bake nearly all of their cakes and pies, and nearly half of these women even bake their own bread.

Even in the larger cities of over 25,000 population, nearly all the cake is home baked in two thirds of the homes, and still more of the pies are baked at home. Only 5 per cent bake no cake at home and 7 per cent no pies, but 41 per cent bake no bread.

Home baking increases as the cities get smaller. In the smaller places 88 per cent of the women bake all their cakes, 88 per cent all of their pies, and 43 per cent their bread, and only one family in 70 buys all of the pastry. Out in the country 94 per cent of the farm women bake their bread and nearly all bake their own cake and pie.

These facts should give a measure of peace to those who bewail the loss of good old-time home baking and the decadent spirit of cookery pride and industry of modern housewives.

WRINKLES UNNECESSARY, RUBINSTEIN SAYS

BY MME. HELENE RUBINSTEIN

(Copyright, 1923, NEA Service, Inc.)

Wrinkles are a serious matter in a woman's life, apart from personal vanity.

To the business woman, whose alertness of mind is often mistakenly judged by the face, wrinkles are a decided drawback. To the actress whose career is built on beauty they are almost fatal, but they are cruellest of all to the average married woman whose husband fell in love with her while she possessed the charm of youthfulness.

Wrinkles are deterioration. They come from different and combined causes. There are large loose wrinkles and tight wrinkles; there are wrinkles that seem to make the skin gather in tight little bunches and there are light wrinkles that seem to be traced on the surface of the skin. The same basic principles or treatment apply to all.

First cleanse the skin with cream. Then press in a good stimulant that will stir the tiny cells to life, then massage in a rich stimulating cream.

Excellent as I know massage to be, I often hesitate to advise it because so many women have the idea that the harder they rub the better they are doing it. Just the reverse is the case. Take the cream in the palm of your hand and with sustained and gentle movements, slowly press it in. Avoid pulling or stretching any part of the skin. When you come to your eyes take a little cream warmed by your hand on your finger tips and with the lightest possible touch apply it, following the eyes. During the day cleanse with cream and apply a little tonic, milder than the stimulant.

Be sure to protect your skin from the weather, from heat and cold, wind and sun, by applying a foundation cream and powder base because exposure to the weather dries the skin and wrinkles follow.

In massaging, work across the line and in a rotary movement, and always stroke upward instead of downward. Connect yourself of the objectionable habit of squinting or grimacing as you talk, and make a conscious effort to relax your features until it becomes natural for you to do so.

Of course, I do not mean to imply that a woman advanced in years can always look 18. But I do say there should never be any untoward signs of age and wrinkles are certainly that.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

Bing-Bang Land

Nancy and Nick went straight to the Fairy Queen's palace from Sugar Plum Land.

"Is that all?" they asked. "Is there anything more we can do?"

The Fairy Queen was reading a letter when they came in, and now she touched it with her hand.

"Here is more bad news, my dears," she said. "It seems that as soon as you get one of my nine hundred and ninety-nine kingdoms into order, another one has to cut up capers. I'm ever so upset."

"Which one is it now?" asked Nick. "And what has happened?"

"It's Bing-Bang Land," answered the Fairy Queen. "There's war in Bing-Bang Land between the wooden soldiers and the tin soldiers, and if it doesn't stop, I'm afraid they'll kill each other all off and there won't be any left for Christmas!"

"Oh, Fairy!" cried Nick, "that would be dreadful!"

"Yes, wouldn't it?" nodded the queen. "Bing-Bang Land is the place all the toy soldiers stay until Christmas time because there wouldn't be room for them anywhere else. Besides there are pistols, poggons, toy-cannons, fire crackers and a lot of other ready for the Fourth of July, so you see the soldiers have plenty of things to fight with. Do you and Nancy think you could do anything?"

"We can try," declared Nick bravely. "I've got a soldier suit myself and I can get it."

"No, no, no!" objected the queen. "No, indeed! We have enough fighters. We need doctors and a nurse. Nick, you can be a surgeon and Nancy, you may be a Red Cross nurse."

Then she turned to one of her fairies. "Silver Wing, go and bring Master Nick a satchel with adhesive tape, glue, string, paint and putty. And bring Miss Nancy a cap and apron; also some bandages and scissors."

Away went Silver Wing and soon returned with the things which she handed to the twins.

"Your Magic Shoes will take you straight to the place," said the Fairy Queen. "Now, goodbye, my dears."

K. M. Really Is Title Of Honor

The abbreviation of these two words into K. M. has been used by the slangy inclined as a disparaging reference to the maid of all work. Today the woman who is a real kitchen mechanic can be proud of the name. There are many little ingenious contrivances which will make her work easier, especially if there is no man in the house to do the mechanical end of the work for her.

For instance she can make herself a very handy lifter for removing hot pans from the oven by flattening out the sides of a 10 cent coal shovel. With this flat tool she can avoid burned fingers and burned clothes, too.

A cover for the new low bowl which holds the shorter-stemmed flowers can be made in a minute from a piece of wide meshed mosquito netting stretched between an embroidery hoop. The stems of the flowers are put through the meshes of the netting. When she loses the key to the tin can, she should use a pair of pincers instead. They are really more reliable than the usual key.

An excellent egg-poacher can be made by using old rubber rings from fruit jars in a frying pan of boiling water. The ring holds the egg from spreading and is not removed until the egg is placed on toast or dish.

OF GEORGETTE CREPE

The small cloche hat of georgette crepe in beige or gray is usually accompanied by a veil which ties in a bow and allows wide streamers to depend from the side.

FASHION HINTS

SPORT HATS

The Deauville scarf having been greatly overdone earlier in the season is scarcely seen now about the shoulders, but it is still liked as a trimming for the sport hat.

TIERED SKIRT

The tiered skirt is being success fully combined with the bolero jacket and the blouse of printed silk in the fashionable tailormade.

SILVER SLIPS

Slips of cloth of silver bound at the bottom with a fold of ribbon the color of the frock make creations out of simple blue, pink and orchid organdies. When the shoes, too, match the frock, the effect is lovely.

How to Prepare Fresh Pineapple

1. Grasp the pineapple firmly in one hand, then take hold of the other hand and twist it off.

2. Now slice the fruit across in thick slices not less than three-quarters of an inch thick.

3. Put a slice on a plate. Then run a sharp knife around the edge of the slice, inside the peel. It then comes off with ease, easily.

4. Cut across the slice as shown in diagram, four cuts, one on each side of the core. The core will be out without any waste.

BAKED SPRING CHICKEN

By Bertha E. Shapleigh

The following formula is given on the basis of two spring chickens, so that it may be reduced—or multiplied—proportionately, if need be.

Singe, clean and split the two chickens. Mix one-fourth cup of butter, two teaspoons of paprika, one-half teaspoon of salt, and the juice of one-half lemon. Divide between the two chickens, which have been placed in a pan skin side down. Place in a hot oven and cook for ten minutes.

Turn the chicken over, baste well with the butter and cook fifteen minutes, basting once or twice during that time.

Usually the chickens are thoroughly cooked in twenty-five minutes, but if they do not seem to be done in that length of time, cook ten minutes longer.

Serve at once on a hot plate with butter and juices remaining in the pan poured over them.

LEEKES ON TOAST

Leeks, the member of the onion family which are green and white stalks the size of asparagus stalks, are delicious to serve as a vegetable. Many use them in soup, but in the spring try them cooked as follows.

Trim the stalks, leaving about three inches of the green part—and wash. Cook until tender in boiling salted water, drain and place on pieces of toast. Moisten the toast with a little of the water in which the leeks were cooked. Then melt, by placing over water, some butter, add salt, pepper and a little lemon juice. Pour this over the leeks and serve.

AN INTIMATE STORY OF INNERMOST EMOTIONS REVEALED IN PRIVATE LETTERS

Copyright, 1923, NEA Service, Inc.

LETTER FROM ALICE HAMILTON, BRIDEMAID AT THE WEDDING OF HER SISTER, LESLIE HAMILTON, AND JOHN ALDEN PRESBOTT, TO HER FRIEND, BETTY STOKLEY

DEAR, DEAR BETTY—

Only when I am the bride myself, and perhaps not even then will I ever have the thrill that I had as a bridemaid at my sister Leslie's wedding yesterday.

You see, Betty dear, I had a secret knowledge of a blighted life. I knew that, although Karl Whitney was standing bravely smiling at the other end of the line of ushers, he had received a thrust in his heart from which he would never recover.

How true it is, how very true it is, that truth is stranger than fiction! There stood that splendid young man, much better-looking than the bridegroom, his face pale with emotion, but with a dauntless courage he held himself erect and only could see that underneath it all he was being tortured in a way that had never been accomplished by the Spanish Inquisition.

I could not find it in my heart to forgive my sister Leslie had she not, poor darling, been utterly unconscious of the depth and breadth and height of the love which Karl Whitney was even then silently laying at her feet.

I do not think that I shall ever forget, however, the look of gratitude which came to me from his sad eyes.

(Oh, Betty, you never saw in the face of mortal man such wonderful eyes as those of Karl's!)

As Leslie came up to the altar and was met by John and his best man and the ushers had arranged themselves at the side, I had a chance to look across at him and received his thanks for putting the pearls—his pearls, dear Betty—about my sister's neck.

Oh, Betty, you will never believe this, but as Leslie put her hand forward to receive the ring, she put her other hand rather convulsively to her throat and caught Karl's pearls.

Could anything be more dramatic—more tragic; and to think that only I and Karl Whitney knew!

Betty, if you put this in your new story, it will make you an author probably of one of the six best sellers, and you will have to divide the money with me.

I could tell at just what point of the ceremony Karl began to get himself under control. He looked over to me and a half smile curved his lips and I knew that my hero was himself again, and that he was saying in his heart:

"Oh, lost love, even though you are bride of another, I will be your devoted friend so long as my life shall last."

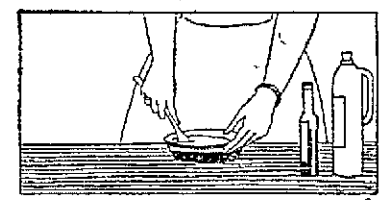

At that moment, Betty, I named him Sir Galahad and I knew that he was whispering to himself, "My strength is as the strength of ten because my heart is pure."

I am afraid, Betty, that you and I will never either of us be the recipient of a love like this. ANY I devoted friend that if we do, we shall not throw it away for the dross of some other love that is not as beautiful, even if we do it as unconscious as Leslie has done.

Household Suggestions

FRENCH DRESSING

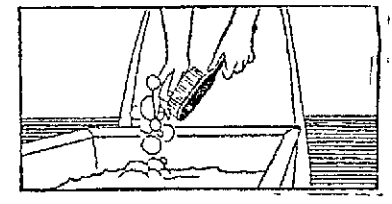

If the ordinary French dressing of oil and vinegar seems lacking in flavor, try adding a single clove of garlic to it.

HAIR BRUSHES

Wash your hair brushes frequently and dry them in the sun if possible. A dust-clogged brush can injure your hair.

DROP SHOULDER

The drop shoulder line is seen to advantage on a bride's frock of pink organdie, where it is outlined with a double row of pink satin flowers mounted on silver foliage.

LEADS IN MEET OF SEYMOUR SCHOOLS

Raymond Moser Wins Most Events In Competition For Field Day

Raymond Moser, the star athlete of Idlewild school, town of Seymour, carried almost half the honors himself in the town meet of schools last week. He brought his school victory in four events, while Dorothy Zepnick of the same school won in two events.

The town meet was held preparatory to the county field day in Appleton on May 18, and for which special prizes will be awarded. The Post-Crescent will donate a silver cup to the school winning the most individual points. Miss Florence S. Jenkins, county school superintendent, will award medals to the winners of each event.

The following pupils will represent the town of Seymour on field day next week: Herbert Hansen, County Line school, winner of the declamatory contest; Dorothy Zepnick, Idlewild school, winner of the arithmetic and spelling contests; John Nelhaus, County Line school, winner of the half-mile race; Earl Wassenaar, Oakleaf school, winner of the standing broad jump event; Raymond Moser, Idlewild school, winner of the running broad jump, 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash, and 440-yard dash.

250 CHICKS BURN IN FIRE AT FARM

The chicken house and 250 chicks belonging to Joseph Rathbeck of Greenville, were completely destroyed by fire about 4 o'clock Wednesday morning as the result of an over-heated stove in an incubator. A Chicago and North Western train passing the burning building sent out a warning and the neighbors came to the assistance of the owner. The barn caught fire as well as a nearby straw stack but the flames were extinguished. The loss is estimated at about $300.

POULTRY THIEF DROPS BAG OF DUCKS, FLEES

An unidentified poultry thief recently stole two ducks of Frank Hammes at Mud Creek, and to stop the fowls from quacking beheaded them and placed them in a sack. Almost caught in the act, the thief fled, leaving the sack behind. Mr. Hammes found the ducks in the sack. This is said to be one of a series of thefts occurring in that vicinity.

UNCLE SAM PLANNING TO SAVE MONEY ON LEASES

By Associated Press
Washington — Plans for saving the government large sums of money in rent and realty transactions, through co-operation with the National Association of Real Estate Boards, have been mapped out by the Federal Real Estate board.

The government has about 9,000 leases, representing an aggregate rental of $2,000,000. Coordinating work will eliminate duplication, utilize waste space, and in other ways effect a material saving in Uncle Sam's rent bill.

One instance, where three separate departments of the government were leasing space in one building at three different scales of rent, is cited as an illustration of the possibility of saving large amounts by coordinating all of the government's rental activities in a central board.

Saucy Ganders Strike Terror Into Flivvers

Everyone knows what a formidable creature the gander is. More than one city miss has recoiled from its terrible hiss. But only recently has it been discovered that this species of barnyard poultry is able to strike terror in such animate objects as automobiles.

Two automobiles, both somewhat of the infant type, paused in their attempts Tuesday to pass these much-creased fowls. Both also were mail cars, and were somewhat in a hurry to proceed.

The gander not showing much of an inclination to retreat, the drivers attempted to pass by means of a left bank movement. This was calculated to show respect. But to Gandy-Bandy it was the tullest evidence of credulity on the part of the four-wheeled monster. It now started to force the enemy back to its own quarters. The cars backed up. It is not known definitely just how they managed to pass.

Carriers Joseph Tennie and Arnold Fetting are thoroughly disgusted. They would have gladly have enacted to keep all blundering fowls and animals off the highways.

AIM TO OVERRIDE SCHOETZ'S VETO

A lively scrap is anticipated in the meeting of the Menasha city council next Tuesday night when the council will probably consider overriding Mayor M. M. Schoetz's veto of a resolution taking the appointment of commissioners out of the hands of the mayor and placing in those of the council.

It was this resolution that led to the "suspension" of Chief James A. Lyman of the police department when he refused to remove the alderman who introduced the resolution. H. E. Bullard, city attorney, has written an opinion on the legality of the action of the council, but it will not be made public until the next council meeting. Chief Lyman is still on duty.

FURS & MYSTERY

...By... A. CARSTENSEN FISHER

The demand for anything and everything furry prior to the start of the war in 1914 had carried the prices of all skins to top notch and would without doubt have exterminated most fur bearers, including the fisher, had not millions of men been occupied with the killing of each other.

The fisher is the largest member of the marten or sable family and is found in Canada, the Lake Superior region, northern New York and occasionally in Pennsylvania. This animal is slender of body, has a long pointed head, short limbs and a long and very furry tail. Its fur is dense and of good color, but shorter than the fur of the marten.

Many variations are noticeable in its fur, which is generally of a blackish hue with a grayish tinge on the head and shoulder; some specimens are brown on the back and gray on the sides; others are a paler shade of brown, and a few have a white spot at the throat.

The fur of the fisher, aside from being in fashion in America and Paris, found a ready market in Russia, where it was used for the making of costly robes, ladies' hats, etc. Fisher tail trimming is also very popular at times.

Fashion quite naturally determines the price of these skins and in 1906, when fisher was only moderately fashionable, dark gray skins brought $8 to ten dollars; since that time they have steadily risen in price, until today a first-class skin will bring many times that amount.

However, the fur of the fisher is often imitated with racoon and is also subject to one of the "tricks of the trade," that of enlarging the natural skin by cutting small slits in the edges and carefully pulling lengthwise till the notches are drawn out and the edges of the skin are again straight.

Costs High School $2 Less To Educate Each Pupil Than Last Year

That the cost per pupil of running Appleton high school will be lower this year is indicated by the financial report of the school which was presented to the board of education at its meeting on Monday afternoon. Although the completed report of expenditures for the year is not possible until July 1, the report submitted indicates that the cost will reach $103 per pupil this year as compared with $105 last year and $142 in 1920-1921.

The balance in the treasury at the present time is $18,805.53 and it is estimated that an additional $4,000 above this figure will be necessary to complete the year to July 1. Part of this will be paid by the tuition which children from outside the city will have to pay, but the reason for the money needed above the budget appropriation is that many more children registered than were counted upon in the original budget plan.

The following table gives the report from July 1, 1922 to May 1, 1923, as it was presented to the board of education:

NEENAH LUNCH CLUB HEARS TALK BY INGIER

Professor F. M. Ingier, head of the commerce department of Lawrence college, delivered an address on "Gambling, Speculation and Investment" at a meeting of the Monday Noon Lunch club at Neenah this week. It was listened to by about 50 men.

The professor dwelt particularly on the legitimacy of speculation, which is sometimes confused with gambling. Business men are all speculators, he said, using the term in its strictest sense. It is the uncertainty in business, investment and life which makes the game interesting, he declared.

He spoke also on buying bonds, bringing out the difference here too between investment, speculation and gambling.

BOOSTERS OF DELLS ESCORTED THROUGH CITY

The Kiwanis club of Kibbourn did its bit and spoke its piece in Appleton Tuesday on its booster trip through a number of Wisconsin cities. Its purpose was to advertise Kibbourn and the Dells of Wisconsin.

The Kiwanians were met at Gneiner corners at about 3:30 Tuesday afternoon by an Appleton party, and Chief George T. Prim relieved Chief James A. Lyman of Menasha of the work of conducting the booster party. At Kimberly Chief Prim turned over the party to Chief Richard McCarthy of Kaukauna.

32,000 Slain Soldiers Call You To Decorate Their Graves On May 30

Appleton Needs An Awakening Of Conscience So $200 Can Be Obtained For The Legion's Graves Endowment Fund

Thirty-two thousand American soldiers are buried in France, among them the next-of-kin of many of our own people here in Appleton. Those whose names are listed below have felt it their duty to aid the American Legion in seeing that these graves are decorated each Memorial day just as are those here at home. Yet how many people are there in Appleton whose conscience will not tell them that they ought to give something to the legion's graves endowment fund?

The national department of the American Legion wants to raise $200,000, which will mean the paying of this perfunctory tribute to the hero dead each year without coming back to the people to ask for more. The Post-Crescent wants to raise $200 here for the American Legion, half of which stays with Oney Johnston post for decoration of graves in Appleton cemeteries.

mother, sister or sweetheart alive. The total now is only $49 leaving $151 to be obtained.

It is hoped that the conscience of Appleton will be awakened; that others will want to add their names to the list of patriotic persons below whether the amount is 50 cents or $10. Memorial day is drawing near. The money must be available before that time. There is no disputing the worth of the cause. You who were in war and you who stayed at home it is no less than a duty to place $200 in the Post-Crescent's fund to be turned over to the American Legion. Make checks payable to Legion Graves Fund, and address letters likewise. All should pay their gifts TODAY.

TUG WITH NEW PILOT STRANDED ON ROCKS

Nellie E. Oshkosh tugboat, was hung up on a reef near an icehouse in the Menasha channel of the Fox river, Saturday night, because the young pilot was unfamiliar with Menasha waters. The boat was on its first trip of the season down river when it became stranded on the rocks. It was not released until Sunday morning by the large Junior. When it struck the rocks it had to release a large and dredge which it had in tow. No great amount of damage resulted but it required quite a pull to slide it from the reef.

Builders Meet

Owing to weather conditions little business was transacted at the meeting of the Fox River Valley Master Builders association Tuesday evening in the clubrooms. Richard Pirge of Milwaukee, field secretary, was present. A special meeting will be called later.

Jess Took Last Chance

"After three years of doctoring for my stomach I became discouraged and swore I wouldn't take anything else. I was blighted with gas all the time. Someone praised Mayr's Wonderful Remedy so highly that I decided to take a last chance. I am now feeling like a new man." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. For sale at all druggists. adv.
